Background and Methodology

Patrick E. Gonzales graduated magna cum laude from the University of Baltimore with a degree in political science.

His career in the field of public opinion research began in the mid-1980s as an analyst with Mason-Dixon Opinion Research. During this time, Mr. Gonzales helped develop, craft and implement election surveys and exit polls for television and radio in the Baltimore-Washington D.C. metro area.

Mr. Gonzales has polled and analyzed well over a thousand elections in Maryland and across the country since that time. Furthermore, he and his associates have conducted numerous market research projects, crafting message development plans and generating strategy blueprints for businesses and organizations throughout the state.

Over his 35 years conducting public opinion polls, Patrick Gonzales has been widely recognized by his peers for his ability to conduct unbiased surveys, and analyze the results in an impartial, evenhanded manner.

Mr. Gonzales frequently appears on radio and television in the Baltimore-D.C. region as a guest commentator.

Elizabeth Gonzales Byers has joined Gonzales Research as Director of Marketing and Social Media. She can be contacted at elizabeth@gonzalesresearch.com

This poll was conducted by Gonzales Research & Media Services from May 19th through May 23rd, 2020. A total of 810 registered voters in Maryland, who indicated that they are likely to vote in the 2020 general election, were queried by live telephone interviews, utilizing both landline (34%) and cell phone (66%) numbers. A cross-section of interviews was conducted throughout the state, reflecting general election voting patterns.

The margin of error (MOE), per accepted statistical standards, is a range of plus or minus 3.5 percentage points. If the entire population was surveyed, there is a 95% probability that the true numbers would fall within this range.

Synopsis

Memorial Day's upon us, yet it feels like February 2nd as we emerge from our burrows like Punxsutawney Phil. If we see our shadows, does this mean six more weeks of winter?

We asked Marylanders their opinions on issues surrounding the coronavirus calamity, which has engulfed the world for the past 3 months.

Statewide, 22% say the restrictions put in place in March to prevent the coronavirus from spreading have "gone too far," while 15% say the restrictions "haven't gone far enough," and the majority of Maryland voters - 63% - think the restrictions that have been put in place to prevent the coronavirus from spreading "have been about right."

Further, 64% believe the stay-at-home measures that have been put in place to protect people have been worth it, while 22% think these measures have caused more harm than good, placing unnecessary burdens on people and businesses in Maryland.

Maryland citizens are worried, though not exceedingly so, about becoming seriously ill from the coronavirus. Statewide, 57% are concerned about becoming ill from the virus (17% "very concerned" and 40% "somewhat concerned"), while 41% are not concerned.

Up to this point, Marylanders are generally in sync with the actions taken by government to try to contain the virus.

However, 53% across the state say that they or someone close to them have lost a job or had income reduced due to the coronavirus crisis; 64% in the rural areas of Maryland. The economic impact of the coronavirus in the coming months will likely begin to take a more conspicuous role in shaping voter attitudes.

Governor Larry Hogan has benefitted from unease toward the coronavirus and its increased infection potential in Maryland, boosting his approval rating 8 points in the past 3 months. Among voters, 78% overall approve of the job Hogan is doing - 42% strongly approve - while only 18% disapprove of the job he is doing.

Eighty percent of women and 76% of men approve of the job Larry Hogan is doing as governor, as do 77% of voters under the age of fifty and 78% of those fifty and older. Seventy-nine percent of African American voters and 78% of whites approve of his job performance.

By party, 82% of Democrats, 74% of independents, and 71% of Republicans approve of the job Hogan is doing as governor.

In The Free State, Donald Trump, like Rodney Dangerfield, gets no respect.

Statewide, 40% approve of the job Trump is doing as president, while 58% disapprove of the job he is doing.

Eighty-four percent of black voters, 83% of Democrats, and 68% of Marylanders under the age of fifty disapprove of the job Donald Trump is doing as president.

In a November election match-up with presumptive Democratic nominee Joe Biden, Trump trails by 24 points in Maryland. Statewide, 59% say they would vote for Biden “if the election were held today,” while 35% say they’d vote for Trump, with 6% undecided.

Gonzales May 2020 Poll Results

Coronavirus Restrictions

We asked Marylanders if they thought the restrictions that have been put in place to prevent the coronavirus from spreading have “gone too far,” “haven’t gone far enough,” or “have been about right.”

Statewide, 22% say the restrictions gone too far, 15% say they haven’t gone far enough, and 63% think the restrictions that have been put in place to prevent the coronavirus from spreading have been about right.

The results by party, gender, age, and race:

Restrictions	Too Far	Not Far Enough	About Right
Democrat	5%	21%	74%
Republican	53%	8%	39%

Stay-At-Home Measures

Among Maryland voters today, 64% think the stay-at-home measures have been put in place to protect people and limit the spread of the coronavirus have been worth it, while 22% say these measures have caused more harm than good by placing unnecessary burdens on people and businesses, with 14% offering no response.

Eighty percent of Democrats believe the measures put in place have been worth it, while 51% of Republicans think the measures have caused more harm than good.

Among unaffiliated voters, 61% say the measures have been worth it and 26% say they have done more harm than good.

Stay-At-Home Measures by Region

Tested Positive

Forty-three percent of respondents say personally know someone who has tested positive for the coronavirus, while 56% say they don't.

By region, 35% in the Baltimore metro area say they know someone who has tested positive for the coronavirus, compared to 55% in the Washington metro area, and 41% in western Maryland and the eastern shore.

Level of Concern

Across the state, 57% are concerned about becoming seriously ill from the coronavirus (17% "very concerned" and 40% "somewhat concerned"), while 41% are not concerned about becoming seriously ill from the virus (13% "not at all concerned" and 29% "not that concerned"), with 2% giving no answer.
