MARYLAND: BATTLEGROUND STATE

Senate contest

The Senate race for Maryland’s open Senate seat is a dead heat with former Governor Larry Hogan (R) tied with Prince George’s County Executive Angela Alsobrooks (D) at 46%. 7% of voters are undecided, while 1% say they would vote for someone else.

- The race is very close among voters 50+ as well, where Hogan is ahead 47% - 45%. He leads thanks to a 13-point advantage among voters 50-64, while Alsobrooks has an 8-point edge with seniors.
- Hogan is making the race competitive in spite of Maryland’s large Democratic registration advantage by winning Independents by 23-points and also a quarter of Democrats.
- There is a gender gap, with women voting for Alsobrooks by 8-points and men picking Hogan by 10. There is not a large gap by educational attainment.
- Hogan leads by 20-points among white voters 50+ and by a narrower 8-point margin among white voters under 50. Alsobrooks is ahead by 52-points among Black voters 50+, while the race is much closer among Black voters 18-49, where Alsobrooks is up 18-points.

Presidential contest

Unlike the Senate race, the Presidential race is not close. VP Harris leads former President Trump 64% - 32% on the head-to-head ballot. On the full ballot, Harris is ahead 59% - 29% with RFK getting 5%, others getting 2%, and 5% undecided.

- Harris leads Trump with every single demographic group other than Republicans, though margins vary. She is ahead by 26-points among voters 50+, powered by her 33-point lead among seniors.
- By age, Harris's best group are voters 35-49, with whom she leads by a sizable 50-point margin.
- There are larger gender and education gaps on the Presidential race than the in the race for Senate.
- Harris wins about 9-in-10 Black voters in Maryland along with a majority of white voters.
- Among voters undecided in the Senate race, Harris has a 9-point lead.

Comparison: Presidential vote to Senate vote

Hogan is running a net 32-points ahead of Trump with his race tied at 46% and Harris leading 64% - 32%. Not surprisingly, he is outrunning Trump among all major demographic groups, but the margins vary significantly.

- Hogan’s overperformance is larger among voters under 50+ and the gap on the ballot is narrowest among voters 65+.
- By party, Hogan and Trump pull the same 83% of the vote among Republicans, but Hogan is running more than 40-net points ahead of Trump among Independents and Democrats.
- While still trailing among them, Hogan is outrunning the top of his ticket more among women voters than men.
- Among Black voters 18-49, Harris is up by 82-points but Alsobrooks only leads by 18-points, a very large gap.
- Although Hogan leads among voters with less than college degrees, he is overperforming more relative to Trump than among those with college degrees.

Senate: Images

Hogan has a more than 2:1 favorable rating at 59% - 28%.
 Alsobrooks does as well at 41% - 16%, but she remains undefined to a significant portion of the electorate.

- Both Senate candidates have stronger images among voters 50+ than among voters 18-49.
- A majority of voters in each demographic group regardless of age, party, gender, race, and education have a favorable image of Hogan.
- He is remarkably not polarized on his image with only a +35 rating with his fellow Republicans but managing a +28 rating with Democrats.
- One negative sign for Hogan is the only group who view him unfavorably are the Senate undecideds, among whom Alsobrooks is largely unknown.
- Alsobrooks is best known among her fellow Democrats, with a majority of Independents not holding an opinion of her.

President: Images

VP Harris’s image is solid at 61% - 33%. President Biden’s is positive, but weaker than Harris’s at 51% - 42%. Former President Trump’s image is deeply underwater at 30% - 65%.

- While Harris’s image is similar among voters under 50 and those 50+, there are differences within those segments, with Harris’s major strengths among those 35-49 and 65+.
- Groups where Harris’s image is better than Biden’s by the widest margins include voters 18-34, Independents, and Black voters 18-49.
- Trump is substantially underwater on his image with each major group in Maryland other than Republicans.

President: Job Approvals

Harris’s job approval is also positive, though somewhat less so than her image, at 57% - 35%. On the other hand, Biden’s is a bit better than his image at 55% - 42%. Trump’s recalled job approval is in negative territory.

- Harris’s job approval is marginally weaker than her image with each major demographic group, though it remains the strongest of the three national politicians tested.
- While still negative, Trump’s recalled job approval is a net double digits better among Independents than his image.

Political environment

79% of Maryland voters rate themselves a 10 out of 10 on vote motivation this November, with voters 50+ at 87%, 17-points higher than voters under 50.

- There is not a statistically significant difference between members of both parties, but Independents are much less motivated to vote.
- A 58% majority say the country is headed in the wrong direction compared to 37% who say right direction.
- Governor Wes Moore is very popular among voters who have an opinion of him – 57% of voters view him favorably vs. just 21% who view him unfavorably.
- A generic Democrat leads a generic Republican by 26-points in the race for Congress, slightly narrower than Harris’s lead over Trump, but very different from the Senate ballot.

ISSUES DRIVING THE ELECTION

Most important issues (1st + 2nd choice) determining Age 50+ vote

- Nearly 3-in-5 voters 50+ in Maryland pick a personal economic issue as one of their top voting issues for this November. The economy and jobs is also the top single issue overall at 28%. Among voters 50+ choosing a personal economic issue, Harris leads Trump by 8-points, but Hogan leads Alsbrooks by 23-points. These up for grabs voters 50+ could make the difference in the Senate race.
- Democrats 50+ have threats to democracy followed by abortion as their top pair of issues. Republicans 50+ are much higher on immigration, followed by jobs/economy. Independents have more varied issue concerns, with the economy/jobs, immigration, and inflation tightly bunched.

Q29. Now specifically, from the following list, please tell me which issue is personally most important to you in deciding your vote this November. Q30. And which of the remaining issues would be next most important to you personally in deciding your vote this November?

Key issues for voters 50+

- Issues that matter to older Americans will be important in deciding the votes of most Marylanders 50+ this November, led by Social Security, Medicare, and policies to help seniors live independently at home as they age.
- Despite these groups giving Harris large leads over Trump, the Senate race is a single digit contest among voters 50+ most focused on Social Security and policies to help seniors live independently at home as they age.

Maryland voters 18+

AARP commissioned the bipartisan polling team of Fabrizio Ward (R) & Impact Research (D) to conduct a survey of voters in Maryland. The firms interviewed 1,258 likely voters, which includes a statewide representative sample of 600 likely voters, an oversample of 482 likely voters age 50 and older, and an additional oversample of 176 Black likely voters age 50 and older. The survey was done between August 14-20, 2024. The interviews were conducted via live interviewer on landline (25%) and cellphone (35%), as well as SMS-to-web (40%). The sample was randomly drawn from the Maryland voter list. The margin of sampling error at the 95% confidence level for the 600 statewide sample is $\pm 4.0\%$; for the 800 total sample of voters 50+ is $\pm 3.5\%$; for the 400 total sample of Black voters 50+ is $\pm 4.9\%$.

Due to rounding, answer choices may not always add up to 100%. Data is specified in the report that it is among either the 18+ or 50+ universe.
